Hungarian Student Fund Total Tops $400 Mark

HUNGARIAN Student Contributions totaled $464.58 for Thursday.

This money being collected will be used to attempt to bring one of the exiled students of the Hungarian revolt to the Brigham Young University campus to continue their educations which were cut short by violence.

Donations from both individuals and groups on campus bring the total bank balance of BYC to $825.45. This is a good beginning but will only partially cover transportation of the students if the president Vernon Anara's needs special immigration aid so. Total plane fare for one student in this case would be over $450.

ONLY SOCIAL and donation to be received Thursday was from Vikings. This group contributed $20 to the slowly growing fund. Pledge of $45 has been submitted by Cami Lo Jean.

"Tuition aid pledged by several minds on campus has been partially paid by White Key, who gave up on investmental by, was $45 and Snowden Corps who contributed $21.50.

BYU MARINE League works with their gift. "We feel that the Hungarian Freedom Fighters are fighting for what we have fought for, a right so say and think as our conscience dictates to us. We admire their great sacrifice of life and purity of education. We regret that we cannot do more.

Following the Christmas tradition of giving, students, as individual donors, added $20 to the donor's fund.

One student contributing $20 explained that this was money he would spend for Christmas gifts for friends but that this would prove the true spirit of Christmas motivated his donation.

Group or individual donations can be taken or mailed to Hungarian Student Committee 144 Student Service Center.

Christmas Stage Show Telecast Set

by Jean Rampton
Daily Universe Writer

THE BIGGEST live television show in Utah, Brigham Young University's annual Christmas show, will be presented Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

High spot in the spectacular Christmas production is the creative dance interpretation of Hans Christian Andersen's "The Little Match Girl," narrated by Lynn McKinley of the BYU speech and drama department.

The theme of "Happy Holidays" opens the program, with a full chorus and orchestra rendition of "Sleigh Ride" and "Holidays," plus a medley of holiday numbers which will close with the Yuletide theme.

OTHER TOP numbers in the Christmas Show include Five Couples singing a romantic duet style "Silver Bells," a Mixed Ensemble and Y's quartets will present "Frosty the Snowman" and "Oriental Candy" in the middle section of the musical entertainment.

"Little Children All," "Dance Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "Deck the Halls" are the Christmas theme numbers to be sung by the 6 voice Chorus under the direction of Norman Gulbrandsen, BYU professor of music.

A MODERN Santa's to shop where Santa makes toys from the happy thoughts of people, and where bad thoughts "go in a boop," is the second modern dance production on the Christmas Show.

"It's Christmas in the Air," the finale, the orchestra, chorus, soloists and dancers will offer a medley of yuletide favorites and narration ranging from "Silent Night" and "O Come All Ye Faithful" to "Jingle Bells."

BYU's Modernaires president Bonnie McKay will introduce the fourth annual Christmas Show, which, if he talks right with electronic sound engineers, will be televised over KDYL.

Student ticket sales will open at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Smith Fieldhouse and the public will be admitted at 8:30 p.m.

TOO FAST FOR YOUR BLOOD

"HONEST, OFFICER, it all happened so fast I still don't know what happened.

Or have you heard this line before? Maybe you have even been one to say those same words.

How did it happen? Who should receive the blame? Or is it too late for blame to do any good?

Perhaps the accident was the other driver's fault technically. But could you have stopped or avoided the scars and bruises and possibly even death if you had been traveling at a slower speed?

MODERN VEHICLES have been designed with a multitude of safety features, all of which may help to prolong life. But no automobile has been made foolproof.

The windshield wiper is a marvelous invention. That is if it works properly. Might be a good idea to get a new wiper blade before starting home for Christmas.

Hydraulic brakes are far more effective than the old-fashioned type if they are in adjustment and the brake fluid is at its correct level.

SEALED BEAM headlights are brighter and last longer than Edison's original variety. But if your lights are set too high, you may be the cause of some oncoming driver's night blindness, and possible collision.

Have you looked underneath your auto lately? Is your muffler in good shape? Or have you heard of carbon monoxide fumes and the damage resulting from inhaling this deadly gas?

How smooth are the tires on your "buggy"? Have you ever driven over ice and snow? Marvelous how trends (especially snow-treads) will help a car stay on the road.

DO YOU HAVE a set of tire chains that fit your tires? If so, do you know how to put them on? Why not get your riders together before you leave and teach them how to help you?

A car heater is most welcome in this weather if it is functioning properly. It is no fun to get out in the middle of the desert and have the heater discontinue to heat. Better check it.

BY CONDUCTING a thorough inspection of your vehicle before leaving for the vacation you will be helping to reduce the possibility of your being in an accident.

And if you and your car and your drivers are all in "good shape" then your chances of coping with the other driver will be much more favorable.

Let's all stay off that injured or dead list and safely join our friends back here next quarter.

Chimes, Lights Set To Mark Yule Ceremony

Ringing in the holiday festivities, the carillon bells will chime favorite Christmas carols as the Christmas tree and lighting ceremonies Friday at 8 p.m.

The chimes will be rung by Ruth Stansfield, Bellflower, Calif., BYU Young Women University students gather for the ceremony.

The 300 lights on the 40 foot evergreen tree between the Karl G. Maeser and Eyring Science Hall buildings will blaze into color before the traditional singing of Christmas dances.

Christmas songs will be carolled by the choristers to precede the lighting of festivities and the pulling of cords.

Bill Marsh, Salt Lake City, president of BYU's annual campus yule ceremony is assisted by Ann Sagers, Provo, who is in charge of the program.

The annual Provo community Christmas ceremony is held on the campus each year.

SHARE THE ABUNDANCE

ONE OF THE most profound insights which a person can attain is that all of life is a gift.

Material abundance, beauty, truth, and the fulfillment of human relations are given to us here at Brigham Young University to accept with humility and to experience with joy and thanksgiving. The good things of life are intended for the use of those who have the need and the capacity to utilize them, not only for their own fulfillment, but for the enrichment of society.

THIS CONCEPT is basic to the American Way of Life. We have voluntary enterprises aimed at many phases of welfare in public life. Neighborliness is the word we use. In the earlier days of small communities, neighborliness was expressed in simple, direct, and personal ways.

With the growth of our society these functions have become organized, but still express the American will of assisting others.

TODAY WE have an old tradition set up in a new framework—the Campus Chest. On the college campus, giving has become a part of the accepted life of the campus community. The Campus Chest campaign is an important expression of this fact.

The Chest Drive at its best represents the common will of the whole campus community to deal faithfully with the responsibility to support, in part, public welfare work.

AND IN ACCEPTING this responsibility of adulthood, BYU has gone the second mile in stretching out their hand to the valient people of Hungary.

Wednesday, through the assistance of Thea Alexis, Y Calacesh, Intercollegiate Knights, and social units, the AMS-AWS began the program of entertainment and sales to give a small part of the abundant wealth they enjoy. Joel Allred, John Wadsworth, and Judy White lead the drive, which hopes through a canvass, to reach the goal of $4,500.

Now its up to the students of Brigham Young University, to make our contribution.

Will we accept our responsibility?

NOTICE THE BIBLERITES IN THE CROWD

NEXT MONTH the most unique dance of the school year puts in an appearance at Brigham Young University.

It is the Daily Universe-sponsored Bibler Bounce, in which the Bibler cartoon characters are chosen by a student vote in an assembly.

The characters, Worthal, Louise Lush and Professor Snarf are to represent the ultimate in typical studentry and professorism on campus.

Each is all the typicals and odd bolls poured into one campus character.

THE BIBLER BOUNCE, traditionally one of the only dances of winter quarter, has established a tradition since it's inception several years ago of being the dance to introduce the new "firsts" in any given year.

Last year the dance committee was the first, outside of the elaborate 2-night Junior Prom, to decorate the East gym in the Smith Fieldhouse with a false ceiling. Since the Biblerites set the pattern several committees have accomplished this feat.

LAST YEAR the Bibler characters elected by the student body vote were the first elected "royalty" in memory to present intermission entertainment when they presented a skit for the consentation students' committee.

These and many other original ideas have preceded this year's Bibler Bounce committee and ideas are already being hatched to surpass the performances of predecessors.

The dance is scheduled for the week-end of Jan. 23 and should, in addition, serve as Victory Dance after the BYU-Utah State Agricultural College basketball game.

Right now, students should be thinking of that most unusual of all professors, that most "typical" of all men students and that most Lush-ious of all coeds to nominate for Bibler Bounce royalty. Nominations for these characters must be justified by several examples of Snarfishness on the part of the professors and Worthal-like attributes on the part of candidates, will be circulated within a week or so of the resumption of school after Christmas.

Be thinking!!

Nationwide Poll Indicates . . .

Restrictions Found Necessary By Collegians

MINNEAPOLIS, (ACP) — It would appear, on the average, that college students are little bothered by restrictions of various sorts placed upon them by college administrators. This is not an unqualified generalization, however, since restrictions are unique for each individual college. Students may be very satisfied at one particular institution and very unhappy at another.

In addition, the situation may vary within the confines of any one college, say between students living on campus and students living off campus, or between students in one particular line of learning and those in another.

TO GET SOME information on this issue from the student's point of view, Associated Collegiate Press asked the following question of a representative national cross-section of college students:

Do you feel that your college administration is too restrictive in governing your private life while you attend college?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	20%	15%	18%
No	76%	85%	78%
Undecided	4%	3%	4%

Indications are that coeds appear to be a shade more satisfied with their present status than men. But still a greater interest is the fact that all but a very small percentage of students have opinions either one way or the other on this issue.

Most students who feel the regulations laid down by their college administrations are fair justify their opinion with the observation that rules are necessary. "They have to have most of these restrictions for a large group," is the way a freshman coed at Alabama College (Montevallo) puts it, while a senior at Villanova University (Villanova, Pa.) says: "The administration must maintain standards of personal conduct to maintain its reputation."

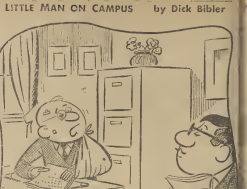
SOME STUDENTS qualify their acceptance of administrative regulations with the senior coed at the University of Nebraska (Lincoln) who writes: "A youth needs certain restrictions until he is an adult. There are, however, some situations that leave me uneasy."

Students who feel they are hindered with restriction generally offer specific examples. And most of them advance the hypothesis that it is impossible to mature as responsible adults when they are treated like juvenile delinquents. For example, at a large midwestern university puts it this way: "The college administration seems to treat the student how mature he is when he starts college, but yet lays down rigid laws to control the student."

THESE REGULATIONS are absurd" is the feeling of a senior coed at a large southern university, while a graduate coed at the same university makes herself more specific: "Do away with standard dress rules, visiting rules and restrictions against living away from the dorms." "The residence and eating rules are unfair" is the feeling of a junior at a small midwestern state teachers college.

A FOREIGN graduate student at the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis) contrasts our colleges with those in Europe. He feels that there is a totally different viewpoint on the two continents. "In Europe students are treated as adults; they are respected as leaders and future hiders. In the United States they are treated like children, regimented under trivia and red tape."

The small percentage of students who are undecided on this issue generally offer the comment that "it depends upon the school." A few haven't made up their minds yet and "just don't know."



Safety Valve

Spurious Letter . . .

Dear Editor

I have too much respect for faculty members at Brigham Young University to believe that the letter in Wednesday's "Safety Valve" was written by one of them. No faculty member would have written such garbled inanities for publication, not even in an effort to be facetious. Moreover, no faculty member would write an unsigned entry/item to the editor.

It is likely that in most organizations and associations there are some members who condemn certain authorities over them, and at BYU there are undoubtedly some students who condemn faculty members and others who would seem to be worthy of respect; but if this practice were to become too common or if students were to become overly peeved, it would probably be due to faculty incompetence more than to student depravity. Certainly, crying about the situation in the Daily Universe would do little to rectify the situation.

May I suggest that the Daily Universe Editor should employ a little more discretion in printing spurious letters which tend to belittle the intelligence of faculty members?

WILFORD E. SMITH

Ear To Ground . . .

Dear Editor,

After reading "Big Problem" (Safety Valve, Dec. 3), alleged by written by A New Faculty Member, I came to your office to have you read to me the deletions.

To my surprise your Campus Editor allowed me to read the entire original letter. I noted it was very rough draft on plain paper and had many characteristics of newspaper office copy, including strikeovers and insertions. It was unsigned.

This "letter" raised additional questions:

1. Was it a "plant"? Did a staff member prepare it to "bait" to stir-up reactions such as mine? If so, it is unfortunate, because in so doing he stereotyped A New Faculty Member as incoherent—a characteristic not really descriptive of most of us.

2. If this were not a staff responsibility, then why did you accept and print an unsigned letter of this caliber? This in itself is irresponsibility, for it accepts whatever pseudonym used at face value. Have you evidence that this was written by a faculty member?

Under your editorial policy published in your printed policy "Unsigned editorials are the honest opinions of the editor who assumes responsibility for the material contained therein." Do you really assume responsibility in either of the above cases for such nonsense?

3. Was this really written a faculty member? (I must rate the possibility) If so, why did he not identify himself?

Regardless of which alternative fits, let me offer the writer a tentative suggestion concerning his problem of "role playing" for which he seeks advice.

Keep your ear to the ground, your eye to the keyhole (both at the same time if possible), and don't let that typewriter get out of hand.

Ray R. Canning
Asst. Prof. Sociology

(Ed. Note: Letter was not "plant." It was received intact through campus mail in Brigham Young University envelope. Red-faced, the editor takes responsibility for printing the letter without having the name of the writer on file, a violation of established Daily Universe policy.)

Students Given Suggestions For Final Week Cooking

by Deanna Barnum

From now until final examinations are over, students will have very little time for cooking. This article is written to suggest quick easy meals for exam week.

While you are sitting up late studying put a pot of beans, a pot of potatoes, and a pot of macaroni on to cook. They can be refrigerated for as long as a week and reheated in various ways.

Pre-cooked potatoes can be used for hash brown potatoes, salad, or other familiar dishes. A new idea for scalloped potatoes is: slice the pre-cooked chopped onions; sprinkle each layer with salt, pepper and flour; cover with canned beef consomme and heat thoroughly.

Ham is the best flavoring for beans, and now it is inexpensive. If you do not have any on hand when the beans are cooking, add split vienna sausage or sauteed bacon when re-heating them.

The macaroni can be served with cheese sauce or tomatoes, onions and hamburger. If you have some left-over meat, use it in place of the hamburger.

A quick easy salad and some fruit served with any of the above dishes will make a complete meal. Salad suggestions are: cabbage, bananas, and pignuts; and string beans, cheese, lettuce and chopped onions.

For quick lunches keep good nutritious sandwich materials on hand. Delicious sandwich fillings can be made with chopped raisins and peanut butter; chopped olives and boiled eggs or peanuts and raisins mixed with ground carrots.

Remember: A well-fed body is essential to a keen mind.

Friday Night Slated for Mistletoe Ball

Annual Delta Phi sponsored Mistletoe Frolic will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m. in the Social Hall, Smith Ballroom and National Guard Armory.

Tickets are 75 cents a couple and dress is heels and hose.

Theme for the dance is Mixed Emotions.

Co-chairmen planning the annual event are Ralph Clerk, Dale, Ore. and Alyrie Ray, Wilmington, N. C.

Oregonians To Charter Vacation Bus To Portland

The Oregon club is planning to charter a bus to Portland for the Christmas holidays.

The group plans to leave the Brigham Young University campus the evening of Dec. 12, at about 6:00 p. m. and go straight through to Portland, according to Douglas Dill, president of the club.

Those wishing to pay for the trip with a check should make it payable to Greyhound Bus Co.

To sign up contact Douglas Dill, FR 3-5500, ext. 290.

Invitational Set For Saturday By O.S. Trovata

O. S. Trovata social unit will stage their annual invitational Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Park University Ward Hall. Jerry Hyde's combo will play for the dance.

Decoration of silver crystal hanging from the ceiling, white sprayed trees with silver balls, and blue floodlights will depict the theme, "Crystallite."

Centerpieces of pine boughs will adorn tables where cookies and tall frosted glasses of fruit will be served to the couples.

Intermission will feature musical numbers by the Chord-L's and the O. S. unit will sing their dream song.

Chairman of the event is Mary Jo Paramore, Provo. Other committee members are Carolyn Hardy, Las Vegas, Nev., decorations; Paula Loyd, Salt Lake City, intermission; Claudia Stapley, Beaver, and Joan Kimball, Rock Springs, Wyo., refreshments; and Ellen Claire Weaver, Chicago, invitations.

Diamond Jubilee

by Jeri Ann Murphy

The Scroogeish president of the Bachelor's Over 25 Club, a haranguering and harrassing nemesis of this popular column was observed last Saturday night hiding in the bushes adjacent to Lover's Lane, feverishly taking notes, ie: technique, etc., etc.

The president, who is tall, thin and makes up for his irrascible disposition by being belligerent and pugnacious, was asked to comment on his being detected in such an ignoble position.

"Don't believe those stories you read in Diamond Jubilee!" he rasped furiously. "It's impossible that I was seen hiding in the bushes of Lover's Lane. It was dark as pitch that night!"

Despite frantic efforts of the club, many harried members have been flushed to the glee of all LM's and Senior women. Here are some the caught and had:

Diane Henry is making known her engagement to Jim May. They have circled June 3 for their wedding. She is from Upper Darby, Penn., and he is from Baker, Ore.

Dean Scott is planning to marry Eloise Snider in a Jan. 4 Salt Lake Temple ceremony. He is from Salt Lake City and her home is Delta, Colo.

Allen Wade recently presented his Athenian pin to Diana Daniels. She is a Cami Lou member from Long Beach, Calif., and his home is Fillmore.

A recently engaged couple is Betty Griffis, Sandy, and Val Farnsworth, Midvale. They are planning a spring wedding.

Married Sept. 19 in the Salt Lake Temple were Mickey Hopping, Calgary, Alta., Canada, and Hall Werner Wenatchee, Wash.

Planning a June ceremony in the Los Angeles Temple are Kent Hitchcock and Joy Bradeen. His home is Buhl, Ida., and she is from Martinez, Calif.

Hungarian Athletes Face Soul-Searing Crisis

by Charles Denton

MELBOURNE—(INS) — Hungary's Olympic athletes today faced the soul-tormenting question of whether to return to their ravished homeland and its Soviet rulers or remain in the free world and hope their families can join them.

There was little doubt at the Hungarian headquarters in Melbourne's Olympic Village that those who choose to remain in Australia or apply for entry into the United States or other nations can do so without fear of the Red "watchdogs" traveling under various guises with the Russian team.

THE QUESTIONS torturing the Hungarians are the fate of their kinsmen and families at home and the consequences to their relatives if they choose freedom rather than submit to the Red shackles awaiting them.

Some do not know whether their loved ones are still in revolt-torn Hungary or have escaped to Free Europe, where they may now be awaiting transport to a new life some where in the world outside the Russian orbit.

HUNGARIAN team officials said it is impossible to tell how many members will turn their backs on the promise of this vast land and return to Europe when the team boards two chartered French airliners at the end of the week.

Gyula Hegi, Hungarian Minister of Sports who is here with the team, summed it up this way: "You can bet that those with families still in Hungary will go back."

But that did not answer the question of where the families were.

JAN SOMOGYI, Hungary's former world record holder in the 50-kilometer walk, received an unsigned cable, purportedly from his wife, urging him to remain in Australia and wait for her and their children, Janos, 11, and Edith, 4.

Trusting no one at the camp and without money, Somogyi appealed to a Melbourne newspaper, which reached the Red Cross in Vienna 16 anxious hours later and confirmed that the cable actually had come from Somogyi's wife, Teresia, 31. He then announced he would remain in Australia.

THIS illustrated the fear that lies beneath the Hungarians' defiance of all persuasion to return.

Valeria Cyvage, 23-year-old holder of the Olympic 400-meter backstroke swimming record, timidly refused to confirm, for example, that she intended to fly to Canada and marry her fiance, an escaped Hungarian "freedom fighter."

She would say only that "perhaps" she would go to meet him in exile and that she had "heard" he was in Toronto.

BYU Drops Close One To Iowa State, 57-48

by Rich Hall

AFTER leading for most of the game, Brigham Young University's fighting basketball squad dropped a thriller, 57-48 to Iowa State Thursday night.

The Cyclones, favored to win the tilt, jumped out to the initial lead on a field goal, but guard Tom Smoake tied it up at 2-2 Iowa then took off to run up a five point lead. The Cats caught their hosts and went into the lead on a goal by Lynn Rowe, 10-9.

From there until the closing minutes of the game there was never more than a four point spread between the teams.

THE DIFFERENCE seemed to come when Harry Anderson, guard, fouled out with 10 more than five minutes remaining in the game. Anderson played with Iowa State's American guard Gary Thorson on even terms throughout the game. With a little more freedom once Anderson was out, Thompson paced through 6 points in the closing minutes, and improved on his record.

Height was once again Cougar nemesis. With three of the Cyclone starters towering over the BYU club the Cougars found themselves losing out the boards and having many their shots blocked.

THOMPSON ended up h point man on the floor with 20 points, 12 from the field and 8 from the charity stripe. Steinfield for the Cougars with 14 from the field and 4 from free throw line. Forward Jo Benson continued to stay right behind Steinke in scoring honors with 12 points, hitting 5 goals and 4 free tosses.

Both teams hit for 17 field goals, but the big difference came on free throws. Iowa fouled 23 times, giving Iowa State 23 points out of 39 tries in the charity scoring. The Cats were fouled 12 times by the Cyclones, but were able to do through only 14 of 24 attempts on foul shots.

ACCORDING to Coach Stan Watts, the beating BYU took on the boards, plus their lack of firepower in the second period hurt the Cat cause most. Both were able to score only 18 points in the second half.

Coach Watts also felt that having to try and out-jump taller Iowa State club were the Cougars out.

STAN WATTS, taciturn Cougar coaching genius, provided the al cauliflower for Brigham Young in their surprising showing inst Oregon State and Washington Coach Watts battled State of the Beavers down to the wire in the brain warfare de nent and won by a wide margin over Tippy Dye, one of the coast's best hoop mentors.

Year after year the Cats have been a little short in the height department and have given away talent to many of their rivals. However, wily Coach Watts has given the Cats a big boost with several "brains" wins over the nation's best teams and coaches.

The Washington win was another example of Watts strategy, ing off to a victory that had press box wags shaking their ds.

Davey Dorn, 6-10 w tons of press clippings was enough to he jolly green giant and experiment rather than go all out victory. But in Watts, mind Bruno provided the secret for a ful conquest of Washington. Believe it or not, the round head ed out that if the Cats could hold the lumbering Bruno to less points the Brigham could pull it out.

Bruno relied scraping hooks, wire spectacular, but the bes an was so far out of position he could not be counted on under e boards, and the Cat mentor saw that Doug Smart, Tippy Dye's ng backup, at times, was slow and didn't jump too much thanks to Watts and Johnny Bowen the Cougars dominated the ards and won the game.

Fullmer is a man all of Utah and LDS people can be extremely proud of. It's a shame to see such a clean living man ensnared in a business with others underground or in the gutters.

It is refreshing after the Rex Layne era, to have a man called "Mormon" in the Atlantic Coast press who is deserving of the title.

American Olympic Squad Dropped By Russians In Final Day Play

by Jerry Cunningham

AMERICA'S inability to wrestle Greco Roman style, and rips, fence, swim and ride a b Yanks humbled United States the unofficial Olympic claim pionship.

Russia, a nation of Greco-Ro lan wrestlers, swimmers, fenc ers, flin tumers and bicycle rid ers has surged ahead of the United States in Gold Medals for the first time, 33-31, a lead that is too much for the U S to overcome in the few remaining events.

RUSSIA'S indomitable gym nasts, especially their women completely outclasses their op ponents in this event Red evid nals and fencers also excelled.

Little Hungary, angry at the Russians for political reasons rose to majestic heights in a "blood letting" water polo brawl and skunked the Soviets, 4-0.

SPEAKING OF the Hungar ian athletes, 36 of them are re ported definitely not returning to their Russian dominated home after the Olympics Some of them will seek asylum in the U S and others will stay in Australia.

In the water polo match the bitterness flared when Hungar ian spectators jumped out of their seats rushed to the edge of the Olympic pool and yelled threats at the Russians.

The Hungarian spectators yel led at the Russians to leave the water and fight. The Russians declined.

THE POLO match was mar red by rough bathing and fre quent infringements for which both sides were penalized.

Then Hungary's Ervin Ardar churned up water, with blood streaming from a cut near his right eye.

Driving Straight Ahead . . .

Conditions 'Ideal' For Road Deaths

by Bob Koenig

It is an odd paradox that most fatal automobile accidents occur under "ideal" conditions.

According to the facts over 95 per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents are apparently to good condition. Over 75 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents occur in clear weather under dry road conditions.

An equally large amount of fatalities occur while driving straight ahead.

To complete this "ideal" picture the facts show that in 1955 over 2 million persons were injured, many of them permanently.

These figures don't mean that accidents only happen under certain circumstances though. No one is immune to destruction at any given time or place.

Pres. Wilkinson's Illness Rated Top BYU News Story Of 1956

JOURNALISM students have ranked the heart attack of Brigham Young University President Ernest L. Wilkinson as the top campus news story of 1956.

A poll of some 40 student writers and editors showed that the illness of Dr. Wilkinson, who is still recovering from an Oct. 5 coronary occlusion, led the list of important happenings selected as the "Top 10 BYU Stories" of the calendar year.

CLOSELY ranked for second and third, respectively, were the appointment of Harold Kopp as new head football coach and the creation of BYU Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, comprising 17 new wards.

Students marked the $100,000 Jacking estate gift and the $1,030,000 Ford Foundation grant to BYU as the fourth best story of the year.

THE GRIM report of the deaths of four BYU students killed when their automobile overturned in New Mexico as they were returning home for last summer's vacation was fifth on the list.

This fall's concert by the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra was rated as the sixth biggest news event.

Ranked seventh was BYU's enrollment increase to top 9,000 students in autumn quarter.

THE BYU track team's Skyline Conference victory and ensuing European tour were voted eighth.

And tying for 10th were the naming of Terry Tebbs as "Little" all-American for his basketball exploits, and the beginning of BYU tuition.

Other stories frequently mentioned but not ranked in the top 10 included the Boston Pops Orchestra concert, "Remember When" Homecoming activities, last spring's record graduating class, Junior Prom, a 750 voice choral and orchestra concert, and appointment of W. Cleon Skousen, BYU director of public services, as Salt Lake City police chief.

Committee members include: Larry Regis and LoAnn Vanderford chairmen; Judith Ludtke, invitations; Ralph Finlayson, publicity; Don Crandall, decorations; Janice Strong, entertainment and Nancy Brighton, refreshments.

BYU Holiday Slate Set For Distribution

Tentative plans include movies, a bobsled party, an ice skating party at Utah Lake, fireside, Christmas caroling, a get-acquainted social, a candy pull, a Christmas dance and a visit to the State Hospital.

Co-chairmen planning holiday activities are: Jeri Adams, Kaye Burrup, Carol Ann MacBeth and Betty Sardoni all of Provo.

First Stereo Sound TV In Utah Planned For BYU Yule Show

by Bob Koenig
Daily Universe Writer

COMPATIBLE stereophonic sound will be the featured side light of the annual "Brigham Young University Christmas Hour" this year.

Compatible means enjoying three dimensional sound in the home without spending a dime, and without being an electronics engineer.

The simple requirements are to tune in KTVT, Channel 4, radio station KDL, 1220, and tenuously. The radio must be placed about six feet to right of the television set.

"BALANCE" the volume both sets, then close your eyes occasionally and you'll think you are in the same room with the performers.

Stereophonic sound is known form its use in "Carmen" and "Cinemascope." Smith Field House telecast will be the first to present three dimensional sound in Utah homes, however.

TO DO THIS the program must be broadcast through separate receivers, separate microphones, over separate channels, and played through separate receivers and loudspeakers. Only then is the stereophonic sound realized.

The program will be telecast Saturday at 9:30 p.m. It will feature vocal groups, dance groups, and a campus orchestra on the show produced by Owen S Rich.

Those unable to join the circles "homonopous stereophonic Americana" at home are urged to view the live performance at the field house. There is no admission fee and even student ID cards are not needed.
